

CAMPAIGN ACTIVITIES

October 2009

Just because the weather is cooling off doesn't mean that we should!

Remember what President Reagan said, "if you can't make them see the light, make them feel the heat", and that's just what grassroots activists have been doing for the past few months.

A few reminders of deadlines and upcoming events are in order:

* Our next Campaign Management School is scheduled October 24 in Dallas, see our website for details. It will be hosted by the Dallas County Council of Republican Women, Janet Clesi, President. If you're a candidate or planning to be, or want to work in a campaign, or just be helpful to candidates, the school is for you.

* We've entered a new reporting period for campaign hours, July-August-September 2009, with reports due to me sometime in October. The new form is on the TFRW website, and you can email me just the hours, snail-mail it, or fax it. Remember that only political activities count for these hours, not Community Service or Caring for the Troops, as worthy as they are. As always, the important thing is that you're out there working for candidates and causes, because the Congressional elections of 2010 will truly be a turning point for our country, and we want it to turn RIGHT.

So ladies, go out and save our Republic!! And Thank You!
